New Type Ship Is Approved

Roosevelt Terms It An Answer To Menacing Submarines

By the Associated Press

Final tests of the new, flush-deck type cargo ship "Sea Otter" have been adjudged satisfactory by the navy, Senator Brewster (R-Me) reported today, and construction of the vessel, which President Roosevelt once termed the answer to the submarine menace, is ready to get underway.

Original plans to use the ship for trans-Atlantic cargoes have been abandoned, however, he said, and use of the ship apparently will be confined to coastwise and South American trade.

The Sea Otter idea was broached as long ago as April of last year. A one-third size ship was built which successfully weathered tests. A full-size vessel then was completed but reports on its feasibility varied.

The Sea Otter became the subject for a senate inquiry which resulted in decision, to conduct further tests and submit new designs. Final tests on the new designs were completed last week.

Dr. Charles F. Phillips, of Syracuse, N. Y., former economics professor at Colgate university, was appointed today director of the automobile supply rationing division of the office of price administration, with supervision over tire, passenger car and bicycle rationing.

Raise In Sight

Low paid federal workers throughout the country — those receiving less than $2,800 per year may receive a flat ten per cent pay boost which a compromise proposal to be considered this week by the house civil service committee.

The committee would replace a proposal for payment of time and one-half for overtime work and the increase would be given all the lower paid employees, regardless of whether they work overtime. In cases where the employee earned more through overtime than the proposed ten per cent he would not receive a raise.

Apricots Cheaper

The War Production Board today ordered an additional ten per cent reduction in the civilian pack of apricots in order to make the fruit available for lend-lease with out allocating more tin plate to canners.

The revision reduces the permitted pack for civilian use this year, from 75 per cent to 65 per cent of apricots packed in 1940. The original cut was received on February 11.

Negroes Who Go To Army July 2

Father Proud Of Son Who Got 7 Planes

Used Gun Since He Was a Child Four Years Old

By HANS P. DREYER

BROWNING, Mo., June 22.—(AP)—Lieut. Arthur Brassfield, skinny, Missouri-born flier who downed seven Japanese planes in the battle of Midway Island, sharpened his sights on squirrel, rabbit and a chicken eating hog.

"Had a gun in his hand since he was four years old," his farmer father said today, cackling over his son's feat in the Pacific air-sea clash.

First news of the incident was brought by a country newspaper correspondent who visited the little four room farm house of the P. A. Brassfields in Sullivan county.

"Did you know that your son had shot down seven Jap bombers in the battle of Midway," Mrs. Brassfield was asked.

He'll Do His Part

"No," she answered with the characteristic hesitancy of a Missourian, "but I know that wherever he is, Arthur will do his share — and a little more. He's been that way since he was a little boy."

Arthur Brassfield had more to say.

"Arthur ought to be a good shot," he exclaimed. "Had a gun in his hand since he was four years old. One day — Arthur was about seven — I was down in the hog lot trying to keep a big sow from killing some little chickens."

"The hog got the best of me and I got mad and yelled 'Shoot that darn hog.' A shot rang out and the hog dropped dead. It was Arthur with his 410. He'd shot that hog right through the head."

"Well, I really didn't mean to have the hog killed and from then on I was careful not to tell the kid to shoot unless I meant it."

"Of course," Brassfield added. "We had some good ham and sausage from the hog."

Lieut. Brassfield, 31 years old, graduated from the high school in Browning and received an A. B. degree from the University of Oregon. He later graduated from the Missouri Teachers College at Kirksville and returned to teach and become superintendent of the schools at Browning, a town of 531 population.

A Flying Cadet

He married Miss Irene Blake in 1937. She now lives at Canton. Brassfield enlisted as a flying cadet in 1937. A brother, Eugene, is a staff sergeant in the army.

"Arthur is one of the finest men and teachers I ever met," said John Ed Fuhrman, superintendent of schools in Linn county. But the naval officer's father was back to his prowess with a 410 shotgun.

"Yessir, he was hell on rats and squirrels and I know it. He gets a chance he'll be hell on the Japs too."

Take Part In New Europe Or Be Cheated

VICHY (From French Broadcasts), June 22.—(AP)—Pierre Laval told his compatriots flatly tonight: "I desire Germany's victory."

"We must either take part in the new Europe or be resigned to being cheated," the chief of government said in a broadcast.

"If I tell you this policy is the one to save France and guarantee a good future you must believe me," he said.

Germany, he declared, was making great sacrifices to create the "new Europe," and without her "the Bolshevik menace would spread over Europe."

Appealing to French workers Laval said: "It is for the liberty of the war prisoners that you have to go to work in Germany."

"It is to give France her position in new Europe."

Conferences Continue At White House

Roosevelt And Churchill To Make Statement Later

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—

Vital conferences between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were described today by the White House as progressing day and night in a "very satisfactory way" and it was disclosed that the two United Nations leaders expected to issue a joint statement later on.

They are conferring together and also with military, naval and air experts of both countries.

This much was revealed by the presidential secretary, Stephen Early, but he had nothing to add on specific details of the conference, such as whether Mr. Roosevelt and the prime minister were focusing their attention primarily on the question of opening a second fighting front in Europe or on possible steps to stave off an even more decisive defeat at the hands of the axis armies in North Africa.

First Statement Issued

The statement from Early that conferences still were continuing was the first word about the secret deliberations of the president and Churchill since the latter arrived in this country Thursday.

"I can say simply this," Early told reporters. "The conferences are continuing in a very orderly and a very satisfactory way. Neither the prime minister nor the president feels they have reached a point in their talks where any public statements can be made. As soon as that point has been reached, you may expect a joint statement from them."

"The conferences are continuing day and night and between the British and American staffs working under their guidance, but hold at times separate conferences, from those being held by the prime minister."

"Off Record" Talks

The leaders, Early said, are holding numerous talks with other parties, but these are being kept "off the record."

"By that," Early explained, "I mean the president and prime minister will continue seeing all kinds of experts, military, naval air. Any one of these meetings is really part of the whole. There is no need to put it on the record or feature any one of them."

The presidential secretary was informed that London newspapers were splurging Washington reports that Lieutenant General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of Canadian overseas forces, was being heavily favored to command United Nations forces that might be employed in opening any second front. So far as he was concerned, Early said these reports were highly speculative.

Only Speculations

"As I told you when Mr. Churchill arrived," he added, "yours is a free press. I anticipated plenty of speculation, and apparently we are getting it."

At the time of Churchill's arrival in this country, Early had said he considered speculation on a second front entirely justified.

British, Driven To Egypt, Prepare To Defend Canal

BY DE WITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Marshal Rommel's capture of Tobruk, and the precarious position of Russia's great naval base of Sevastopol under furious German assault—operations vitally linked with Hitler's attempt to break into the Caucasus and mid-dle east—bring us appreciably nearer the moment when the Nazi chief will unleash his full pack and race for a kill.

Our immediate concern is with Tobruk, for Sevastopol still stands. The British now are back on Egyptian soil, preparing to defend their mighty base at Alexandria and block the road to the Suez canal. Obviously the position is serious.

The London press, surprised and angered at this defeat, de-

New Means Of Raising Funds Offered

Discuss Taxing Bank Checks And Soft Drinks

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—With sales tax proposals defeated, the house ways and means committee turned to a new excises today in an attempt to swell still further the record-breaking totals of $6,640,000,000 in new taxes it already has approved to help finance war.

Two proposals have been advanced to tax bank checks, either a definite amount on each check or a flat monthly percentage levy against the total withdrawals from a bank account. And the treasury has suggested that soft drinks be taxed about $146,000,000 annually.

But with the committee pledged to complete its work not later than Wednesday, it appeared that the total taxes it will recommend to the house will remain about $2,000,000,000 shy of the revised treasury department request for $8,700,000,000.

"General Relief"

Before ending its study which began March 3, the committee also must consider a so-called "general relief" provision designed to adjust hardships that the steeply-increased corporation rates might impose on "growth" companies—those in business or which, for some reason, cannot use the average earnings or invested capital base in computing excess profits taxes.

The committee refused, by a vote of 13 to 8, even to consider the sales tax question at a special meeting Saturday.

New Collection System

But the committee did approve, by 10 to 9, a new system of collecting income taxes at the source, be it pay checks, pay envelopes or bond interest.

The program, to begin next January 1, calls for a 10 per cent "withholding" each week or month, depending on how a person is paid, of the difference between pay for that period and weekly personal exemptions. Those exemptions are obtained by dividing the annual exemptions by 52.

Accident Deaths On The Increase

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—The National Safety Council said today that expanding employment and the increasing tempo of wartime production were the basic factors in the sharp increases in accident deaths in 23 states for the first five months of 1942.

The council said that in the 23 states whose industrial commissioners report to it monthly, accident deaths from January 1 to June 1 totaled 3,555, or 12 per cent more than for the corresponding period of 1941.

The total number of accident deaths last month, the council reported, was 781, a boost of 11 per cent compared to the number reported in May, 1941. It added, however, that most of the increase in May, this year, resulted from coal mining accident deaths in West Virginia.

With Tobruk and virtually all Eastern Libya regained and with the British eighth army beaten, leaving thousands of its number in the Tobruk trap, the axis African corps rolled eastward today against Egypt, imperiling the entire position of the United Nations in the Middle East.

An enemy column evidently feeling out the weakened British line along the Egyptian frontier clashed with British mobile units a few miles from the border, the British reported, and Rome boasted that Italian-German troops were marching against Egypt.

Trying to block further reinforcement of the already superior African corps under Marshal Rommel, the RAF lashed desperately at Rommel's forward concentration points, landing fields, and land and sea transport.

Two Ships Hit

Torpedo planes hit two large enemy supply ships, firing one, and struck an escort vessel, in a convoy south of Cape Bon, Tunisia, on the Sicily-Libya sea route, the RAF reported.

Among other actions the RAF "successfully attacked large numbers of enemy transport vehicles on the Sidi Azeiz landing ground," the air communique said.

British and axis mobile columns already had clashed yesterday near Sidi Azeiz, 12 miles northwest of the Libyan-Egyptian border stronghold, Fort Capuzzo.

Leaped British Frontier

The axis' own heavy air forces leaped the British frontier positions to strike at defense communications along the Egyptian coast between Sidi Barrani and Fuka.

The white flag that fluttered out Sunday morning over Tobruk's shattered barricades as a final mute concession that a superior axis force had reconquered Libya marks a major turn in the stratagems of war on two continents, if not in the whole world.

So extended and intertwined are causes and effects of this galling capitulation that military experts were hard-pressed to trace them all but it was obvious that the axis triumph was forcing a drastic reshaping. If not postponement or abandonment, of some plans of the United Nations.

Rome proclaimed today: "Occupation of Tobruk has been completed, and axis troops are marching toward the Egyptian frontier."

The British forces which escaped the axis sweep were digging in along the Egyptian frontier.

Destroyed Flotilla

The Hitler command credited a German mosquito boat flotilla with complete destruction of a formation of small British coastal craft and freighters fleeing from Tobruk yesterday morning.

One patrol boat, six coastal craft and a 4,500-ton freighter were sunk and three other coastal craft captured 175 men aboard, the Berlin communique said.

Off the Dutch coast, the Germans said, three of Britain's Mosquito boats—motor torpedo craft—were sunk in an engagement last night with German minesweepers and several other British vessels were badly damaged.

In the air war of Europe blow and counter-blow were struck by the British and Germans last night. The Germans bombing at Southampton in their heaviest raid of three weeks. RAF formations of 200 to 300 planes attacked the German naval base of Emden Saturday night.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Senator Truman (D-Mo.) said today he had been notified by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that financing had been completed for a new factory at Kansas City, Mo., to make naval aircraft engines.

"They hope to turn the first spade full of earth on July 1," said the senator.

The plant, he said, would be operated by United Engine Corporation and would cost approximately $80,000,000. He said he was unable to say when it would be completed, or to give other details.

Attack On Vancouver Brings War To Pacific Northwest

Submarine shelling of lonely Vancouver Island in Canada's British Columbia and gunfire upon the Oregon coast from an unidentified craft lurking offshore today brought war to the doorstep of an alert and expectant Pacific northwest.

The two attacks, at points separated by several hundred miles, came almost exactly 24 hours apart. Official reports indicated that no casualties and little damage were suffered at either spot.

First target was a dominion government radio station at Estevan Point, on the western coast of Vancouver Island. The shelling there began at 10:35 p.m. (Pacific War Time) Saturday and continued for a half-hour.

Awakened by Gunfire

Then, at 11:30 o'clock last night, residents from Seaside on the ocean to Astoria on the Columbia river, at the northwest tip of Oregon, were awakened by the sound of gunfire and the whine of speeding missiles.

"Six to nine shells landed in the area north of Seaside," the army said in a communique from western defense headquarters at San Francisco, "apparently from an unidentified craft offshore. Firing lasted 15 minutes. No damage or casualties reported."

Eyewitness Oregonians agreed with the army that the firing had been of no effect, but many felt certain they had heard more than nine shots.

Editor's Story

One was Robert Lucas, associate editor of the Astoria Budget. Awakened by the sound, he said, "I hurried upstairs to have a look toward the sea, and heard from 12 to 16 shots. The shells seemed to be landing somewhere with a great thud, but I couldn't tell what the objective was."

Lucas and others also told of seeing flashes from a gun or guns, which the editor described as "bright orange and fan-shaped" and much like lightning playing on the horizon.

Tokyo's Report

At Tokyo, a naval commentator quoted by Domei gave indirect support to the belief that the attack upon Vancouver Island, at least, was made by a Japanese craft.

This "must have been a great shock to the United States and Canadian peoples," he said, citing the assault as refutation of Secretary of War Stimson's recent statement that U. S. victories at Midway and in the Coral sea had lessened the danger of Japanese attack upon the American coast.

The shellings in British Columbia and Oregon were the second and third instances of hostile action against the North American mainland since the start of the war, and the first since February 23.

Pigeons Subject Of Talk Today

The Rotary club met today at noon at Bothwell hotel with the president, Dr. R. M. Keller, presiding.

Dr. J. E. Cannaday, program chairman, introduced the speaker Guy Peabody, who discussed the breeding of pigeons and their uses as to food and carriers.

Guests at the meeting were: Dr. C. A. McNeil, guest of Dr. Cannaday, Q. C. Bess, guest of his brother, B. B. Bess; E. C. Martin, George Hudson, Frank L. Wagner, J. W. Kesterson, Ken Carsten and Ellsworth Green. T. S. Matthews, Topeka, Kans., was the guest of Harry Brougher.

An evening session will be held Monday night, June 29. It will be ladies night and installation of officers for the ensuing year. Rev. A. B. Jackson of Jefferson City will be the speaker.

Blackout Test In Boston

BOSTON, June 22.—(AP)—The crowded streets of greater Boston were cleared as if by magic today when air raid sirens sounded at 11:36 a. m. (EWT) in a surprise daylight test described as the first and most comprehensive yet held in such a metropolitan area.

An estimated 3,000,000 people were held in places of safety or sent scurrying to shelter. Within three minutes after the first siren wailed the streets of downtown Boston were cleared of pedestrians, traffic lights winked only to parked automobiles and the entire area appeared deserted.

The test was taken seriously. There was little levity among those sent hurrying indoors. Ambulances and fire engines roared through the empty streets to theoretical bomb blasts.

The streets filled just as quickly as they had emptied when the steady wail of the "all clear" sounded at 11:50 a. m. Immediately thereafter, police car loudspeakers blared out running messages of thanks:

"We want to thank you all for your cooperation today in the first daylight air raid test."

The alarm was spread through 41 cities and towns with a normal population of 1,900,000—and in addition affected hundreds of thousands of commuters and shoppers who throng into the city daily to work and to shop.

Flood Waters Caused Wreck

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission held today that the collapse of a bridge which had been weakened by flood water was responsible for the derailment of a Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad freight train near Flora, Okla., last April 23 which killed five persons.

Army Reports Firing Started At 1:30 A. M. And Lasted 15 Minutes

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(AP)—The army announced that six to nine shells, apparently fired from an unidentified craft off shore, landed in the area north of Seaside, Ore., at about 1:30 a. m. (central war time) last night.

The firing continued for 15 minutes, the army reported, but apparently no damage or casualties resulted.

The announcement was made by headquarters of the western defense command and fourth army. It said:

"Six to nine shells landed in the area north of Seaside, Ore., at approximately 1:30 (PWT) last night (June 21, 1942), apparently from an unidentified craft offshore."

"Firing lasted 15 minutes. No damage or casualties reported."

An army spokesman added that no further details were available for the time being.

Near Columbia River

Seaside, primarily a resort city, is about 25 miles south of the mouth of the Columbia river. It is several hundred miles distant from Vancouver Island, where a similar attack was made by another unidentified craft Saturday night.

A number of beach reports and other small settlements lie between Seaside and Astoria, at the entrance to the Columbia.

Seaside itself has a permanent population of 2,902 on the basis of the 1940 census. Astoria is a city of 10,389.

Residents Awakened

ASTORIA, Ore., June 22.—(AP)—Shelling at sea awakened hundreds of residents of Astoria and surrounding communities late last night, among them Robert Lucas, associate editor of the Astoria Budget.

Lucas said the sound of the gunfire came between 1:30 and 1:45 a. m. (central war time).

"I hurried upstairs to have a look toward the sea," he continued, "and heard from 12 to 16 shots. The shells seemed to be landing somewhere with a great thud, but I couldn't tell what the objective was."

"I don't know whether they were aimed at the land or at some target at sea."

Saw Gun Flashes

Lucas learned that many of his acquaintances in Astoria and nearby towns also were awakened

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, June 22—To help patrol Hawaiian waters, the navy after Pearl Harbor, ordered requisitioning of many private craft yachts and cabin cruisers owned by wealthy Americans who have vacation residences in Hawaii.

Yacht owners were informed they would receive fair compensation, to be fixed by the U. S. Maritime Commission. This was readily agreed to by most owners, some of whom patriotically offered even to give their boats to the government outright. But there was one notable exception.

Among the craft ordered taken over was the sumptuous yacht, Kailani, owned by Doris Duke Cromwell, the tobacco and utility heiress, famed before her marriage as "the richest girl in America." Naval officers were startled to receive a letter from R. W. Swearingin, Mrs. Cromwell's Honolulu agent, asking $35,000 for the Kailani.

This price, Swearingin added, did not include Mrs. Cromwell's sport fishing outfits and a few personal articles now on board.

"The original cost of this vessel," he wrote, "was in excess of $50,000 and approximately $15,000 has been expended in making alterations and improvements for her use in Hawaiian waters. Mrs. Cromwell offers to dock the vessel to permit examination of underwater structure and to conduct any trial considered necessary."

The "offer" was bluntly rejected.

The lawyer was told to inform Mrs. Cromwell to hand over her yacht immediately, do her price dickering later with the Maritime Commission.

Supplies To Russia

The fates and the weather were good to the Russians last winter. But now another twist of fate and the weather are working against the United States and Russia.

It so happens that the polar ice cap this year has come farther south, than at any other time in 100 years. This has pushed closer and closer to Norway and the powerful Nazi bases there.

Result is that only 200 miles of sea separates the polar ice packs and the coast of Norway — a very narrow gauntlet for ships to run, facing simultaneous attack from Nazi submarines, airplanes and destroyers.

This is why there have been losses on the route to Russia. It is also why the United States has not been able to deliver all the supplies promised Russia — though it has tried desperately and the Russians have tremendously appreciated the effort.

To prey on this shipping, the Nazis have developed one of their strongest bases at Trondheim Norway. There they have not only submarines, but land based airplanes. They also have the advantage during the summer of nearly 24 hours of daylight. This handicaps submarines, but helps airplanes.

Therefore, convoys skirting the north tip of Norway have to fight a running battle for three days before they can reach Murransk. It is continuous day and night fighting, with scarcely a wink of sleep for the crews. Merchant vessels bristle with armament. Gun crews have been giving a magnificent account of themselves but the odds are tremendous — and will continue to be until the allies can establish a second front in Norway.

France Goes Anti-Nazi

It can be no secret to the Nazis that scores of Frenchmen are sneaking out of France to England by small boats or even airplanes. Some eventually have found their way to the United States.

The story they tell is one of the most encouraging of the war pictures, but it shows our State Department to be lagging months behind in its policy toward France.

The people of France say these heroes of midnight channel crossings, are so far ahead of the U. S. State Department that it would be humorous if it were not pathetic. U. S. food shipments to French North Africa, they say, won't help win over the French people; if anything, will retard the independence movement there.

The French have been won over by much greater issues than food, and are insulted at the State Department's idea that they would sell their souls for a mess of pottage.

Here are the major developments which have really influenced France:

1. The behavior of the Germans in France.
2. The fact that Britain was not only able to prevent Nazi invasion, but now is so effectively bombing the continent.
3. The resistance of the Russians.
4. American entry into the war.

Of all these, one of the most effective incidents was the British bombing of the Renault motor plant (Frenchmen had been tipped off to leave in advance), and the dropping of the French flag along the Champs Elysee by a British fighter plane last week.

So when the Big Push does come it will find an enthusiastic French people anxious to cooperate.

Note: The French fleet, these Frenchmen say now will not be turned over to Hitler — not because of food shipments, but because the French sailors won't permit it, and the Nazis haven't got the 35,000 naval personnel available to man them.

Capital Chaff

Donald Nelson has spent some time in Senator Truman's office recently trying to dissuade him from issuing the senate report critical of dollar-a-year men. . . . Congressman Clyde Ellis of Arkansas is financing his campaign for the senate in a unique manner. Long an enemy of the power trust, he is getting contributions from farmers and small electricity users who suffer from high local rates. . . . After more than a year, Congress finally has vindicated David Lasser, one time head of the Workers' Alliance. Although a militant foe of Communism Lasser was barred from government employment by a cabal of anti-labor congressmen who wrote the provisions in the 1941 WPA budget. This unfair ban has been eliminated in the 1942 budget. . . . First to give to the Navy Relief was Walter Winchell, who forked over 5,000 bucks. . . . Friends of Juan Trippe, czar of Pan American airways, have been sending out feelers about having him made assistant secretary of the navy. No great enthusiasm so far.

Levis Pals

Insiders credit the AFL turn-down of the CIO peace offer chiefly to two close pals of John L. Lewis — William "Bully Bill" Hutchinson, New Deal hating boss of the carpenters, and Matthew Woll, ambitious little AFL vice president.

Hutchinson and Woll had a big undercover hand in the surprise peace scheme that Lewis sprung last winter, which was torpedoed by the president and Phil Murray. Last month the trio launched another trial balloon, this time using the AFL executive council to do the job.

It, too, got no further than the first attempt. CIO chiefs are determined to steer clear of any peace move tied up with Lewis and his henchmen.

That was one of the chief reasons for the counter CIO plan. Under it, Lewis, Hutchinson and Woll would have no direct hand in the negotiations and, presumably, would be left out in the cold in grabbing off key places in a unified set-up.

This is exactly what the ambitious trio are bent on averting. Lewis is very cold to AFL-CIO peace until he decided he was all washed up with the CIO and needed a new stage-setting in which he would be the boss. CIO plan would have blocked him from such a role. So insiders say that through his pals Hutchinson and Woll, Lewis had the CIO proposal harpooned.

Note: Woll was the personal choice of the late Samuel Gompers as his successor for president of the AFL and for years Woll was known among laborites as the "crown prince." But after Gompers' death, AFL chiefs, and among them Lewis, ditched Woll, and unable to agree among themselves, which should get the prize, finally elected William Green, one of Lewis' United Mine Worker officials, as a compromise.

SUCCESS OF YOUR SEWING DEPENDS ON ACCURATE FIT

By NEA Service
(This article, "How to Adjust Pattern to Your Measurements" is the second of six on home dress-making.)

In lesson No. 1 we have explained just how to order a pattern in the correct size and how to buy material and notions with which to make a dress. We now proceed with the steps to take to make this pattern ready for use.

Ready with the pattern, first step:

When you receive a TODAY'S PATTERN, you have a complete blue print for a garment. The first thing to examine is the instruction chart. Study it carefully. Accept it as your guide to every step to take in order to cut and sew a garment and remember, it has been worked out by experts.

Next, study the picture diagrams of the garment on the chart and eliminate those pieces of the pattern not needed for the version you will make.

Since the entire success of dressmaking depends on accuracy in fitting, complete accuracy in your pattern is all-important. Therefore, your first job is to pin the tissue pieces together making half the garment (Sketch A) and try on, before a full length mirror. Remember that individual figures vary and not all of us have the standard measurements by which patterns must be made. It is easy to adjust the tissue pieces so that the pattern truly represents your individual measurements.

Pattern Alterations

Let both the mirror and a check up of your measurements with the measurements of the pattern pieces decide the changes you will make in the pattern. The necessary changes are made easily, as follows (letters refer to chart at right).

To Alter Waist

(B) To lengthen waist: slash pattern straight across between underarm and waistline. Spread for length required. Insert a strip of paper under slash and pin. Lengthen back to correspond.

(C) To shorten waist: lay a fold evenly across, adjusting to required length. Alter front and back to correspond.

To Adjust Shoulders

(D) For sloping shoulders: lay a dart along shoulder line, beginning at armhole and tapering to neckline. Lower underarm line as indicated by dashes.

(E) For square shoulders: shoulder line must be built up at armhole tapering to neckline. Raise underarm line accordingly. Paper is used for this purpose.

Sleeve Changes

(F) To allow for large upper arm: slash pattern from top of sleeve. Spread slash for width required. Lay darts at full part of sleeve, closing slash at top. Pin

Yugoslavia's Boy King, Peter, To Mix Real 'Rubbernecking' With State Duties In Capital

BY BOB RUARK
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 21— A king, the nice casual kind at which even the lowliest cat can take a gander, came to town Sunday, and the folks who are arranging the visit are trying to keep it as low-pressed as possible.

This newest figure in Washington's cavalcade of royalty is young Peter of Yugoslavia, and by all accounts he is a nice quiet kid with very little kingly stuffiness in his shirt. He likes fast cars, baggy pants and American fiction, particularly stories about the Broadway "mob."

Has Passion For Machinery
The boy has a passion for machinery, which will be gratified when he leaves for Detroit to inspect plane manufacture. He's also due to see shipyards and armaments in the making.

Despite busy afternoons of running his government from its present seat in London, King Peter has managed to live a fairly normal life. He has been attending Cambridge, studying economics and international law.

According to reports, his Cambridge life has been much like that of the average wealthy student. He pulls a decent oar in the crew, and takes considerable interest in football. He speaks excellent English heavily marked with Broadwayese.

He's a self-sufficient kid, poised and with little regard for protocol. In Washington, young Peter will have to put up with some diplomatic stuffiness, of course. He will have to shake hands with a lot of congressmen, doubtless, and dine with the usual number of cabinet members. But his fortnight in America will be speckled with enough pure interest to satisfy his youthful yen to break loose from business and be a pure Washington rubberneck.

Tour Includes Seeing Ball Game

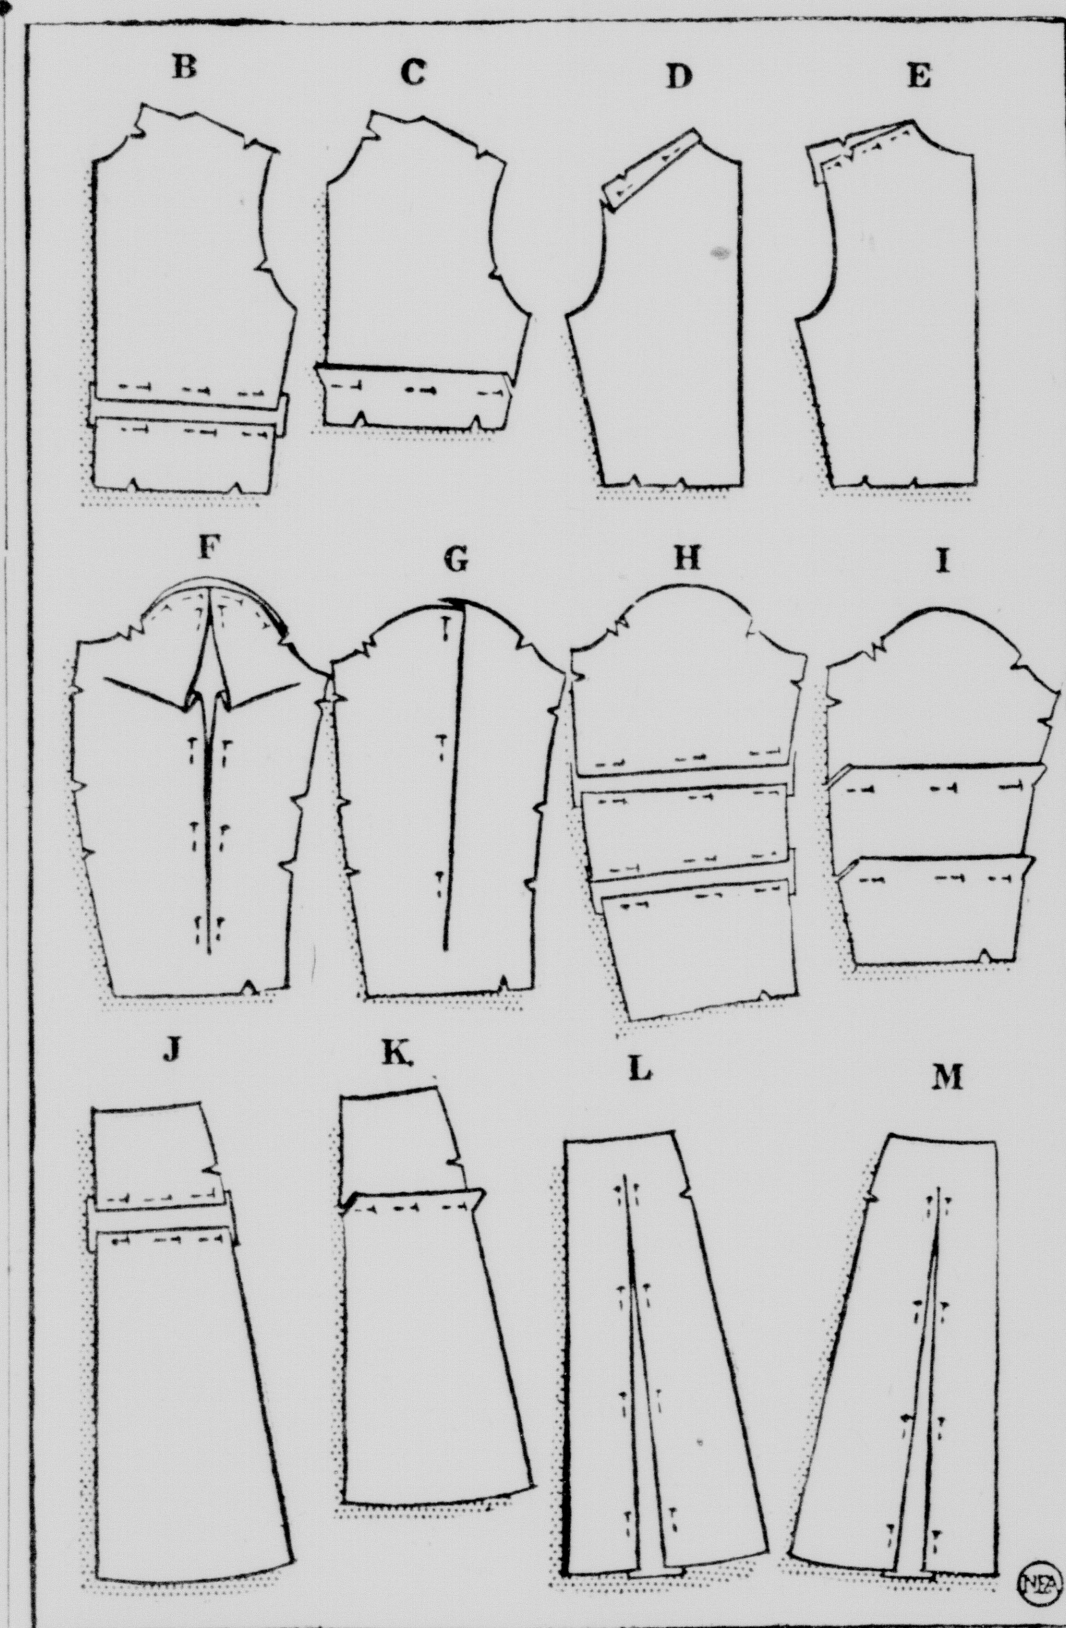

They're fixing it for him to slip down to Washington's Ellipse to see a sandlot baseball game, and maybe take a couple of cuts at the ball himself. They're taking him sightseeing over to Annapolis, up to West Point and to the Marine base at Quantico. He'll be on hand when a fresh batch of draftees is inducted at one of the nearby army camps. He's going up in the Washington Monument, and they're taking him to Mt. Vernon, just like a visiting schoolmarm.

Youthful Peter of Yugoslavia . . . a nice, casual sort of king.

Peter's state duties may be fun, at that. He's having dinner with the president, and he's also eating with Frank Knox on the naval secretary's yacht. He'll speak to Congress — which is interesting because the young king has never seen his own parliament. After pieces of pattern to correspond.

For Larger Hips
(L) and (M): slash pattern from paper under slash and at top, retaining original sleeve length.

(G) For thin arm: lay fold in pattern tapering toward wrist. Lay a small short dart in armhole both front and back below shoulder seam.

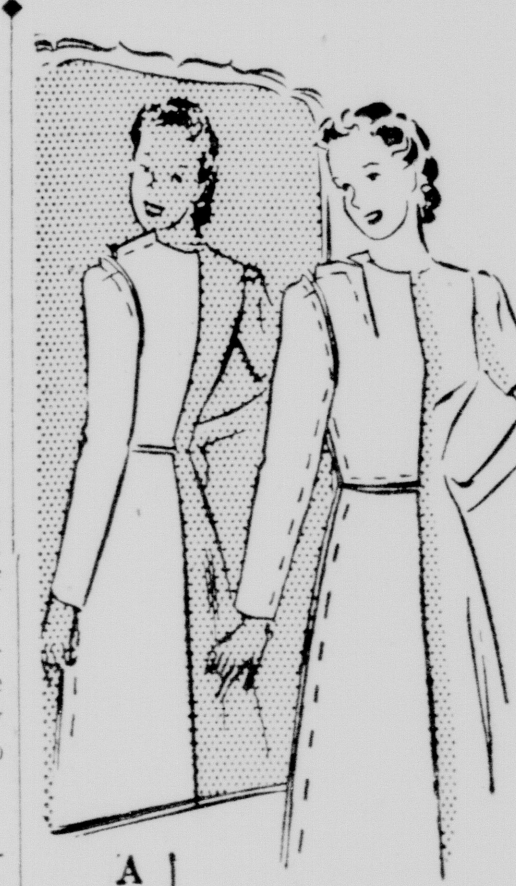

Altering Sleeve Lengths

(H) To lengthen sleeve: determine where added length is required—above or below the elbow, or both. Slash pattern straight across and spread slashes for extra length. Pin a strip of paper at openings.

(I) To shorten sleeves: determine if sleeve is too long above or below the elbow, or both. Lay fold in paper and pin, to take up length.

For Skirt Lengths
(J) To lengthen skirt: slash pattern below hip line and spread. Place a strip of paper underneath and pin. Alter front and back evenly.

(K) To shorten skirt: lay fold straight across both back and front evenly, below hip line. Be sure to change all skirt lower edge toward waistline. Spread both back and front sections $\frac{1}{4}$ the amount of extra width required at hip line. The width around the lower edge will be increased proportionately.

The Ugly Duckling

his father was assassinated, Peter was king for only six days before he fled Yugoslavia.

King Peter's tastes in amusement run pretty close to the average youthful line. He is plain nuts about fast cars; he ordered one not so long ago from America, but couldn't get shipment because of the war. He likes movies, but he won't see Hollywood. Because of his country's plight, the State Department doesn't want his visit here to be too frivolous. For this reason Peter won't see anything of Washington's debaucherous life, which otherwise might be festooned around his neck. There's another item, too—he's more or less engaged to Princess Alexandra of Greece, niece to King George. It probably wouldn't be very tactful to let the young Princess see a picture of Peter buried in a bevy of fluffy Washington cuties.

OUT ON BAIL

CHAPTER X

HUNTER DENT gawked at Sheriff Anderson. "What do you mean, Sheriff—burn out the seat of my pants? What is all this, anyway?"

Anderson, grinning, unlocked the cell door. "Come along. You'll know all in good time."

Hunter followed the officer a block along the side street to the court house. In a few moments they were with Judge Elkins.

"Young man," Judge Elkins said, "you are free. Go your way."

"What—what do you mean?"

"Your bond has been posted, and until your case comes up for trial you may come and go as you please."

"But—who went on my bond, Judge Elkins?" Hunter still was dazed.

"Your bondsman wishes to remain anonymous. You are dismissed."

"Well, what do you know? Hunter said wonderingly as he went out into the free, open sunshine. He stared all about, at the sky, the trees, the busy little city.

From the newspaper Hunter had the place where the girl, Sally Kiker, lived. He was remembering something about Sally, too. When he had first read the name it was oddly familiar to him. Then he remembered. Sally Kiker was Sam Doolittle's girl. Sam was the son of Squire Doolittle, the constable and owner of the little store out Hunter's way. Hunter and Doolittle were good friends; and it was more than likely that Sam Doolittle was the escort Sally had so far shielded. It was a lead worth following.

HUNTER

Once past the bad corner the street became somewhat better and Hunter knocked at the door of a small but neat house of recent FHA vintage. Sally herself came to the door. She was a buxom girl, with a milkmaid freshness; she was the authentic thing, instead of the synthetic type that Red Ballard had been.

"Good morning. This is Hunter Dent, from the Ballard Estates. You are Miss Kiker? May I come in a few moments? I wanted to talk with you about the bank-messenger matter." He added quickly, seeing the swift hostile change that came upon her. "I happen to have been put in jail charged with that murder, Miss Kiker. I'm out on bond now. I had no more to do with that unfortunate matter than you did. I have to find out all I can about it, because my case will come up at the winter session of criminal court, and—well, you can see how it is with me." He smiled his best smile. "I know Sam Doolittle," he added. "I know his father very well."

"Well, Mr. Dent?" she smiled. She had read about him in the paper, as he had about her. They talked of the Doolittles, father and son. "If you'll call Mr. Doolittle and ask about me I am sure you will feel free to help me. What I wanted was for you to tell me exactly what you saw the other night; better still, go with me and let us go over the ground together."

"As soon as I can change my dress," she said. He heard her telephoning Doolittle's store. When she reappeared she was cordial. Hunter found her one of those people you seem all ways to have known. They walked up the street to the corner. Crossing to the east side, they stopped at a dark doorway which led into the stairs mounting to the top of the unpainted frame vacant store here.

"If I tell you who was with me you won't give me away?" she asked.

"I've already guessed it was Sam. Go ahead—I don't know, so you're safe."

"Well, the other night we were coming from the picture show uptown. This is a pretty bad part of town—you know that. We heard somebody coming along. Sam pulled me in the door here. He has a milk route and he knows what a wicked spot it is. We saw a young fellow come past. He was walking fast. He carried some thing under his arm. His hat was pulled down over his face, so we couldn't tell anything about him much. He had dark clothes and maybe a colored shirt. He looked clean. Sam thought he had his hand in his coat pocket as if on a gun. You know how they keep them ready. I couldn't tell, myself."

"Just as we were about to come out and start off again, here came somebody running like everything. We jerked back in here. This time I saw a good-looking young man all dressed up. Had on a silk hat and tails, and I saw the pistol in his hand. He was yelling at the one ahead to halt and stick 'em up—you know how they do those things. Then it just happened so fast you couldn't make heads nor tails of it. Shooting and yelling and when I looked out, like this—from right here," and she stood so she peered around the edge of the door facing, at an angle across the street. "I saw two other men. They seemed to come from around the corner of the pressing shop there, or maybe they could have been hiding in that stairway yonder."

"You know, though, there were two?" Hunter said.

"I'm sure," she said. "What did they look like?"

"Well, the street light here is so sorry I couldn't tell, very well. Besides, they were under the awning there, and you couldn't see much."

"Would you say they were just about of a size, and kind of sleek like, and maybe a little under average height?"

She nodded, adding, "And dressed in dark, too. They looked almost dirty. But they were not. They were fixing the street, there—putting down fresh tar and gravel. There was a long plank on barrels across the street, and these kerosene flares. Well, the shooting started and I was so scared I didn't know which way was straight up. All I seem to remember was the dressed-up young man running out of sight that way," she pointed down the side street, toward the river road.

"He must have had a car down there somewhere. I heard it when it went off with a big roar. And that's all I can remember. Sam and I ran. We saw the man lying in the street, where he had been shot and killed. I lost my purse in the door here, or they'd never have known I was about. Well, that's the way of it."

HUNTER took her home, and went back uptown. He took a taxi to the hospital and was allowed to visit Junior a moment. The boy grinned at him wanly. He was still too weak to talk. As he went out on the street, Red came up in her car. She was the very person Hunter wanted to see, though he just then thought of it. "Did you go my bail, Red?" he demanded.

"If you must know, and I suppose you must, it was Hank Temple's father, at the bank."

"Red, I've been over that ground down there, and I have a theory. Junior was in that crazy stick-up, all right. He was the young man in tails who started it on a bet. But the parties who changed the joke into a tragedy were not fooling. They saw a chance to pick up seventeen thousand bucks. Only they didn't get the money."

"No, Hunter," Red said. "But I know who did, and who has it now!"

Interesting Notes Around And About Missouri

By HOWARD COWAN

TRENTON, Mo., June 22.—(P)—Bones Lionberger solved his transportation and physical fitness problem all at the same time. He bought an 1897 bicycle.

"It's much easier to pump," says Mr. Lionberger, comparing his velocipede with the modern bike. He got it from a Mr. Ruthenford at Chillicothe, complete with shaft drive and wagon wheel brake.

Sure as the circus people hear about Mr. Lionberger, they'll be wanting to name a sandwich after him.

Should the Brooklyn Dodgers ever be so fortunate as to participate in another world series, the management would do well to look into the possibilities of Vern Hoscheit, catcher for the Joplin Miners in the Western Association.

In a game with Hutchinson, the Joplin backstop dropped a third strike and the batter, Vic Barnhart, tore out for first base. Vern, a peppery kind of catcher, snatched the ball out of the dirt and whipped it to first.

The first baseman missed the ball and when he finally retrieved, threw to first. There was catcher Hoscheit, chest protector, shin guards and all, to catch the ball and put Mr. Barnhart (who never won many medals in track meets) out by a foot. (We'd have scored it.) Barnhart out—pitch to catch to first to catch.

Hoping that it isn't one of those signs of the times, we feel duty-bound to tell you that the government has hired a professional wolf trapper for Vernon County. They've Sam Schulz for three months on account of every township but Richland reported wolves were eating the sheep. There wasn't anybody from Richland township at the meeting.

It's mighty nice to hear about folks like Mr. Claude Dunnington, of Chillicothe. She was carrying a couple of crocks of milk out of the cellar, fell down the steps, cut her knees and split things all over the place but came up smiling.

"The dogs almost went crazy," she said.

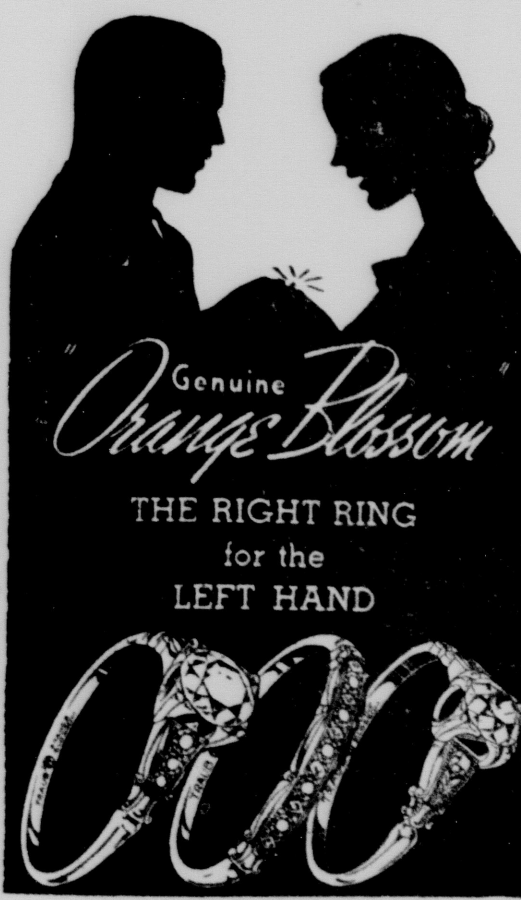

From Ira Dorsey, head janitor at the Fulton post office, we can learn that groundhogs are a lot harder to hit than wild turkey, it's against the law to do it with anything but a .22 rifle and they're good eating. One time there was a bounty on groundhogs, Ira shot 130 in one season. That was in Holt county.

Tom Riordan, in the fire department at St. Joseph, brought a potted poinsettia plant home from the hospital with him last winter. He thought maybe it'd grow and suspected it had the other day when some green sprouts appeared in the oft-watered little pot of dirt. Tom's so tickled and told so many folks about it that his wife's almost afraid to tell him she planted a couple of navy beans in his poinsettia pot early in the spring.

It's rained so much lately that Old Hubbard Spring in Davies County, has started flowing again.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path. The entrance of thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple" (Ps. 119:105, 130).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science is dawning upon a material age. The great spiritual facts of being, like rays of light, shine in the darkness though the darkness, comprehending them not, may deny their reality. Christian Science differs from material science, but not on that account is it less scientific. Summer Fight on Six Fronts

Summer finds the war in Europe and Africa expanding its scope of action, sweeping into the six arenas of conflict shown on map. Massed British bombers are raiding the Rhine-Ruhr and other industrial areas of western Germany. In the Balkans, activity is both in the air—with U. S. bombers raiding Rumania—and "underground." On the four other fronts, active axis-allied fighting goes on. Distances are from the centers of action in each circle. Size of rings does not indicate intensity of conflict.

What Price Glory?

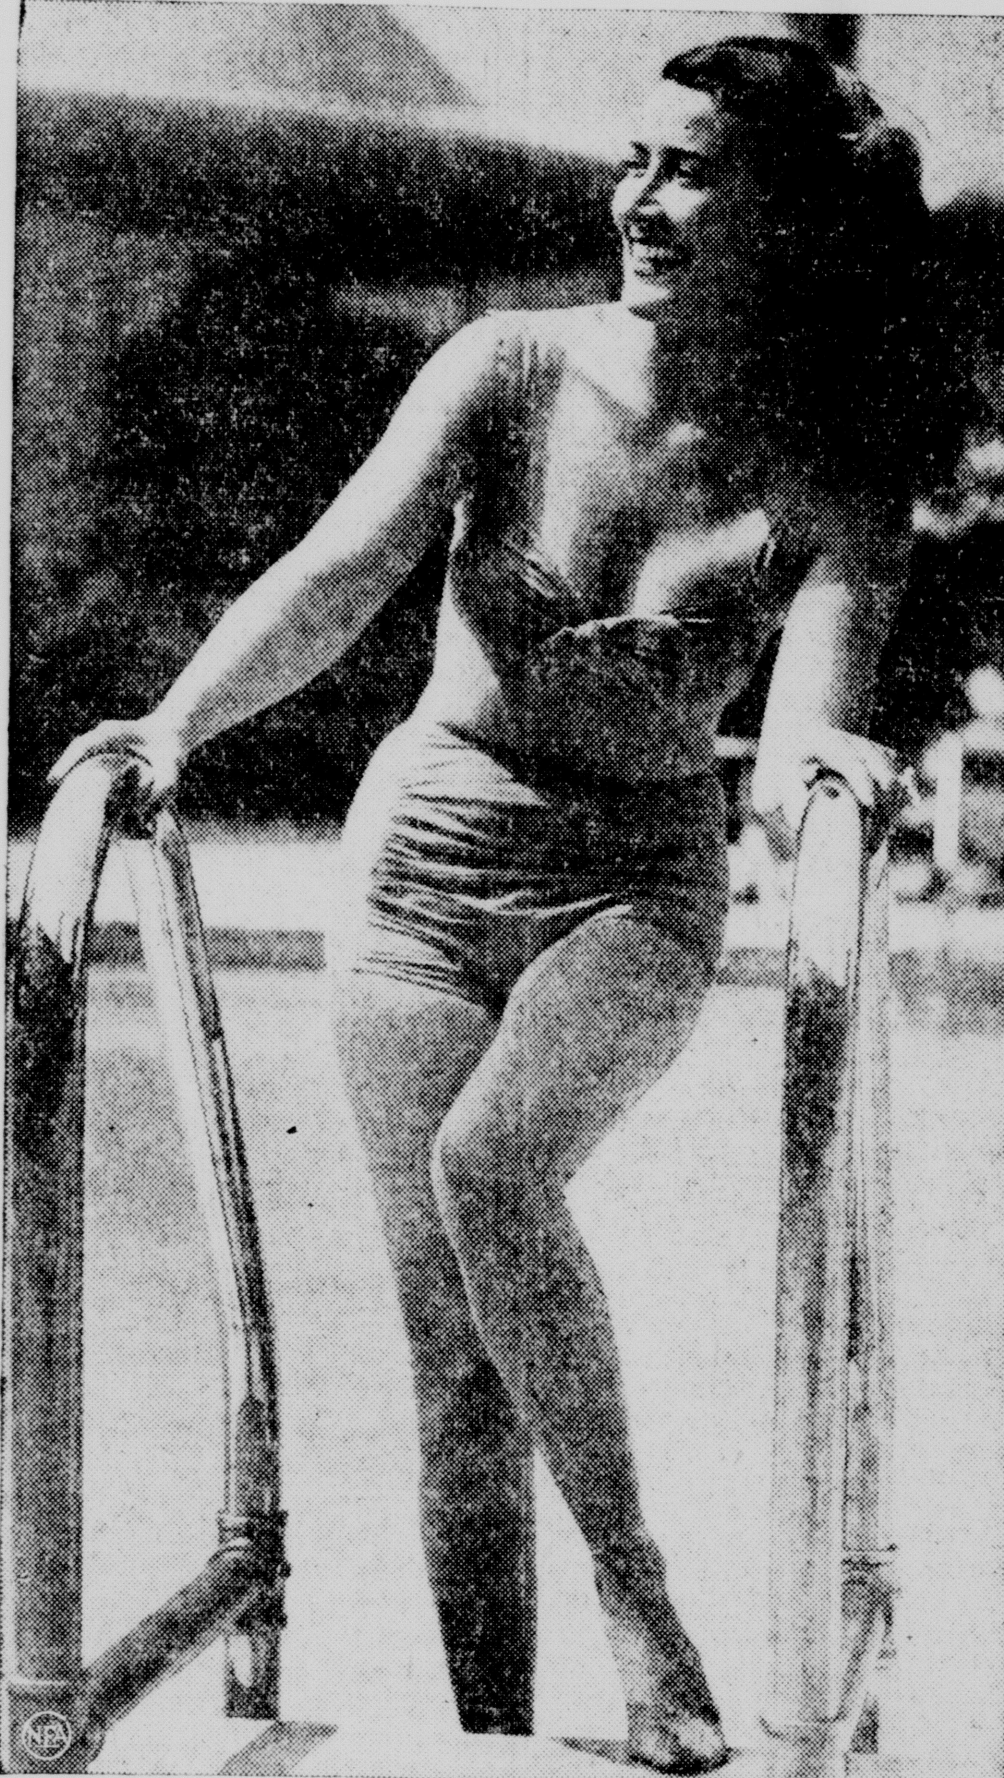

Something is wrong with this picture. Here, on a flag-draped grandstand at the Detroit plant of the Aluminum Company of America, are 12 empty chairs in which 12 American and British heroes of this war were to sit. These 12 were to have seen the great factory turning out vital materials from which weapons of war are made. They were to sit on this platform, in these 12 chairs, and pay tribute to the production line workers who back up the front line fighters. They did not do so because there was nothing for them to see; no one to whom they could pay tribute. A wildcat strike had closed the plant. That is what is wrong with this picture.

Shakeup Of WPB Officials Anticipated

Changes Based On Study By Professor Columbia University

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Complete reorganization of the war production board, including a reshuffling of some top officials, probably will be announced this week, with indications that WPB's future operations will be tied even more tightly to demands of military strategy.

Heading up the personnel changes, it was learned today, will be the transfer of William H. Harrison, chief of WPB's production division to the war department, where he presumably will take over an important post in the procurement setup of the service of supply.

Want Closer Contact

Of major significance in plans for the new setup is a move to bring WPB chairman Donald M. Nelson and the army and navy chiefs of staff into closer contact, with a view toward increasing elasticity of war production to fit swiftly changing military requirements.

During recent conferences with Captain Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of supply, Nelson told reporters that the combined British and American production board intended to aim for standardization of military equipment, and close coordination of British and American war production with strategic and tactical developments on all United Nations fronts.

The WPB shake-up, it was understood, would effect this coordination so far as the United States was concerned.

Based On Study

Officials made it clear that the changes would not be based on the recent report of the senate defense investigating committee, criticizing a dollar-a-year men in WPB. The new setup is to be based on recommendations of Dr. Luther Gulick, head of Columbia university's school of business administration, who has spent two months here studying kinks in the agency's operations.

Decrying congressional criticism of war production officials, Senator George (D-Ga.) asserted meanwhile that "an overwhelming majority of the dollar-a-year men and others 'have done a marvelous job and have done it in a big way.'"

Limelight Now On Battle Of Russia Entering On Second Year

east in the Dunkerque region. Russia in Spotlight.

But until the wily German commander for North Africa, Marshal Rommel, starts an eastward offensive against Egypt to exploit his sweep of eastern Libya or barring some other unforeseen move by the axis or the United Nations, the battle of Russia will hold the spotlight.

That colossal conflict entered its second year today. The German high command announced capture of the last coastal fort at Sevastopol, Russian Black sea base, which has stood as a rearguard threat to any renewal of Germany's drive toward the Caucasus. The Russians acknowledged that a wedge had been driven into the defenses there.

Battle To Streets
There was a roundabout report that the battle of Sevastopol had been carried into the streets of that historic Crimean city with fighting of "unprecedented violence."

How long human flesh could bear up against the frightful pressure of the numerically superior German and Rumanian besiegers of Sevastopol was a grave question. A German success at Sevastopol is almost sure to be followed by the opening of an offensive against the Caucasus.

The axis claimed capture of 28,000 prisoners in Tobruk, a sizeable chunk of the Eighth British Imperial Army. Moreover, the latest Italian commander announced that captured equipment included 100 tanks, several hundred guns and hundreds of motor vehicles.

Booby Taken
It was probable that the booty included shipments recently conveyed at considerable cost into Tobruk when the British still hoped the port could be held as a thorn in the flank of the axis drive eastward toward the Egyptian frontier.

But Tobruk's fall could not be assessed fully in terms of prisoners and tanks captured. It was more likely that it had spiked allied hopes for a second front in Europe this year and had prolonged the war.

The axis seemed to have won for itself the complete initiative in the European-African theater and no one could say that a crisis had not been reached.

British sources agreed that the next few weeks would decide whether Germany could be whipped this year or next, or would be able to fight on for years. The last would be a distinct possibility if Rommel could roll eastward against Suez while the Germans in Russia cut into the Caucasus.

Strength Under-Estimated
The axis power in Libya obviously had been under-estimated and it seemed that only by a diversion of formidable British-American resources to the battle of Africa could he be contained in Libya or held to Egypt's western desert.

A mighty allied effort, at the expense of a stroke elsewhere thus seemed imperative if the Germans are to be blocked from effecting supply contact with the Japanese on the Indian ocean by a forcing of the landbridge, Asia Minor.

trained men and 100,000 allied guardsmen.

So far as concerns land forces, it's doubtful whether Rommel could at this moment muster more men than the defense appears to have, although he is superior in tanks. However, it seems to me that the battle for Egypt is likely to turn on air power, in which case the British presumably will depend heavily on the United States for reinforcements. This doesn't mean that more troops won't also be needed, for they will, but the most pressing matter is air power.

May Cut Coosue
This may be the time when Hitler will cut loose that vast air fleet which he has been grooming for so many months. One of the most significant news dispatches of the day is the report of a Greek submarine commander, who has just returned to Alexandria, that "the Nazis seem to have lots of aircraft on Crete and in Greece." From those positions the Germans could attack either the middle east or Egypt.

May Reinforce Rommel
The greatest danger is that Hitler may not only stage a violent air offensive against Egypt, but may also reinforce Rommel with air-borne troops and supplies. Therefore control of the air over Egypt becomes a matter of paramount importance, and it will be surprising if the British aren't urging the immediate dispatch of substantial air reinforcements from the United States.

The capture of Tobruk may permit Rommel to make a quick stab at Egypt. He will want to catch the British before air and other reinforcements can reach them, and he likely anticipates quick reinforcements from his master.

Cole Camp And Ionia Defeat M-W

Montgomery-Ward Scores Only One Run; Opponents 5

In one of the most exciting and best played games seen on the Cole Camp diamond this season, the Ionia-Cole Camp team defeated the Sedalia Montgomery Ward club 4-1. The game was the first for the local outfit this season in hard ball and they are expected to be stiff contenders for the "limelight" in Sedalia.

Sedalia's lone tally came in the fifth inning when H. Logan hit a long double and scored on an infield hit of Tommy Sanders. Sanders incidentally nabbed a hot line hit by Leslie Alderman, and doubled Kenneth Alderman off at second base in the opening stanza.

Smith singled in the ninth to be the only Sedalia batter to reach first base off of Skinny White, who relieved V. Bahrenberg.

The box score:

Probably No Gas Rationing

Protests From All Parts Of Country Pour In

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Abandonment of plans for nationwide gasoline rationing was predicted in some congressional quarters today as administration lieutenants reportedly gave the "go ahead" signal for a senatorial investigation of the entire situation.

Leaders were said to have agreed to support a proposal by Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) for a five-member special committee with a $5,000 appropriation for an immediate inquiry into shortages of gasoline and fuel oil, as well as the methods being employed to provide deliveries "for ordinary consumer."

While this investigation was expected to deal primarily with conditions in the 17 eastern states now on short fuel rations, several senators predicted the inquiry would have a direct bearing on any future move to extend rationing to other sections.

Senators Doubt Action
There have been indications that expansion of the curtailment area might depend largely on the success or failure of the current scrap rubber collection, but Senators Connally (D-Tex.), Thomas (D-Okla.), and Wheeler (D-Mont.) said they did not believe there would be any nationwide rationing.

"I think the people are doing a better job now of conserving rubber by cutting down on the use of their cars than could be done by nationwide rationing of gasoline," Connally told reporters.

Thomas said he was convinced that there was no need for limiting gasoline sales except in the eastern seaboard and predicted that no such action would be taken. Wheeler said protests from all sections of the country were so great it was his judgment no nationwide rationing order ever would be issued.

Wheat Prices Slumped Today
CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—Wheat prices slumped more than a cent early in today's trade and then spent the remainder of the session recovering practically all of the loss.

Accumulated orders over the week-end as a result of war news and trade belief that receipts would expand materially in the southwest as the harvest movement gained headway accounted for the early break. Actually, the volume of arrivals failed to come up to expectation of some dealers, due probably to recent delays in harvesting because of wet weather. Buying on the recovery was attributed to professional and milling interests.

Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent lower than Saturday, July 18½c to $1.15½c, September $

Hopes World Will Take U. S. For Example

Speaker Pictures World Association Of Free Peoples

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 22—(AP)—Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota pictured today a world association of free peoples, operating somewhat like the states of the union under the federal system, a possible aftermath of the current war.

"The record that has been made by forty-eight states of these United States," he said in an address prepared for the opening session of the 34th annual national governor's conference, "in working together despite their diverse interests, their varying climate, the different background of their people, and notwithstanding the fact that they are populated by sons and daughters of every nation of the world is, in itself, a beacon of hope for the future relationship between the nations of the world."

Want Openness

"I hope that after we win this war we can bring to the relations between the peoples of the world some of the openness and orderliness of the relations between our states, in place of some of the devious diplomacy and international intrigue that has characterized pre-war days."

"With the background of the successful relationship between the states in America we might well develop a free association of nations."

Speaking as chairman of the conference, which is attended by governors of 40 states, the Minnesota chief executive predicted that the United Nations would win "a complete victory" in the war.

Main Soundness

"We will maintain the soundness of our governmental structure on a federal basis with our social, political, economic and political liberties," he added. "We will furnish leadership in the winning of the peace through a world association based upon the United Nations."

Governor J. M. Broughton welcomed the conference to North Carolina. Governor Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri responded.

At a luncheon session Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, was scheduled to be the principal speaker. It was announced, however, that his remarks would be over the record.

Junior Legion Defeats Stover By 4-3 Score

Hard Fought Game Is Pleasing To The Crowd

The Sedalia American Legion Post No. 16 baseball team won a hard fought game from Stover Sunday by a score of 4 to 3.

Horace Donath, on the mound for the Legion, pitched a fine game allowing five hits and obtaining 10 strikeouts. Elwood McMackin caught a nice game and was very helpful to Donath in the pinches. Some fancy stickwork was done by Jack Livengood of the Legion, getting a double and a single while Donath obtained a triple and a single. Some outstanding defensive plays were made by Sedlok, centerfielder for the Legion, and Hanpeter, Legion second baseman. Kanter came through with a fine catch of a line drive in the sixth inning.

Spectators who witnessed the game were well satisfied and expressed their desire to see more like it at Liberty Park.

Cardinals On Their Way To Meet Boston

Lost Four Of Five Games With Dodgers

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Sadder but wiser, the St. Louis Cardinals limped toward Boston today, able to rejoice in only two things — their departure from Brooklyn and the discovery of one pitcher who can fool the devastating Dodgers.

When the Cards invaded Flatbush last week they were riding a seven-game winning streak and trailing the National League leaders by only four games and a half, but Brooklyn apparently is serious about representing the circuit in the world series once more.

The Dodgers slapped the Cardinals down four times out of five, pushed them three full games further behind, and sent them on their weary way.

For the cards, the only bright spot of their visit was provided by Mort Cooper, their pitching ace.

Cooper handcuffed the league champs on five hits in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader, while his mates hopped on three Dodger pitchers for 14 safeties, including home runs by Ray Sanders and Stan Musial, to compile an 11-0 shutout.

Same Old Story

But the second game was the same old story again. Kirby Higbe pitched seven-hit ball for the Dodgers, who bunched their blows off Howard Pollet for a 5-2 decision. Joe Medwick connected safely in both games, stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to 25.

Cooper's victory was his ninth of the season, his seventh in a row, his fifth shutout, and his second whitewash job on the Dodgers, who have yet to beat him.

Yesterday seemed the pitchers' day.

Tex Hugson of the Boston Red Sox tossed a neat three-hitter, Cliff Melton pitched a four-hitter for the New York Giants and Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees turned in a five-hit job—all shutouts. Luman Harris of the Philadelphia Athletics and Ray Starr of the Cincinnati Reds have five-hitters, but both yielded runs.

Ted Lyons A Winner

Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox became the second active pitcher to win 250 games, joining Red Ruffing of the Yankees, who reached that goal only two weeks ago. Only 18 other hurlers ever have won that many games, and only 10 have done it since the turn of the century.

Melton pitched the Giants to a 5-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the first game yesterday, but the Cubs took the nightcap, 7-2, as Stan Hack hit a two-run homer and pinch-hitter Dom Dallesandro smashed a four-bagger with the bases loaded.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phils split, the Phils winning first, 3-2, behind sixth-hit pitching by Tommy Hughes and the Reds rallying behind Starr, 2-1.

Weather Interfered

Pinch-hitter Eddie Stewart tripled in the tenth inning with the bases loaded to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 decision over the Boston Braves. Their second game bowed to the weather.

The Cleveland Indians handed the New York Yankees their fifth straight loss, 3-2, but Borowy led the world champions out of the wilderness with a 4-0 shutout in the nightcap, preserving that seven-game lead.

Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 6-5 win over the Boston Red Sox in the first game, but Hughson evened it up in the second, which Boston won, 7-0.

Detroit and Al Benton beat Washington and Buck Newsom, 4-1, in the top half of their twin bill, only to lose the 10-inning nightcap to the Senators, 3-2, when Virgil Trucks, Tiger reliever, walked a man with the bases loaded.

The Philadelphia Athletics took both games from the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, and 4-3, with Bob Johnson supplying most of the batting punch.

Hogan Wins All American Golf Tourney

Open Tournament Called Off Because Of The War

BY GAYLE TALBOT

CHICAGO, June 22 — (AP) — Little Ben Hogan, some 135 pounds of pure whipcord, finally crashed through to win that major golf championship which eluded him so long while he was busy winning most of the money and otherwise establishing himself as the uncrowned king of the links.

His victory in the Hale America tournament which ended yesterday at the Ridgemoor club was about as brilliant a feat as golf has seen. His total of 271 for the 72 holes shattered by 10 strokes the record for the National Open championship. On his second round the dark, diminutive ex-Texan shot an almost unbelievable 62.

Yet, ironically, the supreme goal of every golfer still eludes Ben. His name will not appear in Golf's record book as winner of the National Open title. Because of the war, there will be no open tournament this year.

This was the closest thing to it. Hogan, though, was not in a mood to accept any sympathy after he had rolled in putts from all sorts of distances to score his clinching 68 yesterday.

A Happy Winner

"What difference does it make?" he demanded. "If this wasn't an open championship I don't know what could be. Everybody was in it. I'm glad to win, whatever they call it. I never expected to be close after that 72 I shot the first day. There were 62 other players even with me or better that night."

Ben was the winner, the player who pocketed first prize of $1,100. The "goat" of the four-day event — and there seems to be one in every tournament — was Jimmy Demaret, of Detroit. The happy-go-lucky Jimmy needed only to shoot the last four holes in par to score a 66 on his final round and finish in a tie with Hogan for the title. Instead, he went to pieces, drove like the rankest duffer on three consecutive holes and wound up in a tie with Mike Turnesa for second place with a total of 274.

Final Round Tense

To sum it up, Hogan's four rounds were 72-62-69-68-271. Demaret had 68-68-69-69-274; Turnesa 65-66-72-71-274. The final round was a tense one, with close to 8,000 spectators tearing over the course in the hot sunshine, trying to stick with the winner. Demaret broke a lot of hearts when he blew up in sight of the finish.

Tipton Owls Win Over The Hornets

Wet Field Didn't Bother Smithton; Just Moved Base

The Tipton Owls defeated the Smithton Hornets by a 3 to 2 score in a hard fought game played at the Smithton ball park Sunday. The Hornets outthit their opponents by a wide margin, but were unable to get their runs across home plate.

The Smithton club, who apparently don't pay much attention to the weather when there is to be a ball game to be played, were true to form Sunday, with the entire infield covered with water, they moved their home plate and infield into center field and everything moved in perfect order.

Smithton Scored First

Smithton scored first, putting over a run in the first on Curtis' walk, Green's single and Selken's infield out. They scored again in the third inning when Selken led off with a single, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on Brunkhorst's hit into center field. The Owls put over two runs in the first of the seventh when Bowles and Mosby Walked and scored on Burris' double to center field. They put over their winning marker on Johnson's single, an error, and Maurin's double.

Good Fielding

Bill Johnson, manager of the Tipton club turned in one of the greatest fielding exhibitions ever seen at Smithton, with sensational plays that pulled his club out of trouble on several occasions.

The Hornets will hold their practice session on Thursday night and play at the Smithton ball park next Sunday.

Lebanon Wins From Sedalia; Score 6-5

Lead Changed Several Times During Game

The Sedalia Merchants were defeated at Lebanon by the score of 6 to 5. It was a nip and tuck game from the start, the lead changing several times.

Thomas, on the mound for the Merchants, pitched a good game, scattering seven hits and striking out seven men, but was a little wild at times. However his support failed on two occasions allowing three runs to score when the side should have been retired.

Burd, fast ball righthander, pitched a nice game scattering seven hits, but had one bad inning, the sixth, when the Merchants scored three runs and had him in several tight spots in earlier innings, but he tightened in late innings.

Small and Summers each secured two hits for the Merchants. Shirley got a home run over the centerfield fence. The Merchants will play the Higginsville Athletics at Liberty Park next Sunday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, June 22.—Look for more big news to pop any day now on the athletic teams that have been doing a fair country job of advertising our armed forces. . . . But don't ask us to guess which direction it will pop. . . . A lot of hints have been buzzing around that there's pressure from the upper regions to give the athletes less publicity and to keep them at their training chores, but there's also the unanswerable fact that their appearances speed up enlistments. . . . Lowdown on that horsemen's strike at Suffolk Downs, as reported by Leroy Atkinson of the Worcester Telegram, is that the blow-off began when a popular "swipe" nearly passed out from the shock of icy water in the stable shower-bath.

Service Dept.

When a group of officers from the south came to Chanute Field, Ill., for specialized work, a private was assigned to give them physical training. . . . Noting that the doughboy hesitated to shout orders to guys with bars on their

My Favorite Blonde

Bob Hope breaks with tradition in his new comedy "My Favorite Blonde" opening tomorrow for a 3 day engagement at the Fox Theatre. This time he gets the girl. She's Madeleine Carroll. Companion-hit on the program is "So's Your Aunt Emma," starring Zasu Pitts.

shoulders, one of the southerners hollered: "Go ahead soldier. We're up here to learn some of your Yankee tricks." Ensign George Paskvan, Green Bay Packers' fullback, is the fifth National League footballer to join Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman's staff at the Iowa naval pre-flight school. And they say officers will be eligible to play with the students!

Strike—Who's Out?

Fort Worth sports scribes tell how Stub Overmire missed his swing at a third strike the other day and the right fielder threw him out at first base. . . . Yes, it really happened. When the ball got away from the catcher, Overmire was slow in starting to run.

What Price?

Price Brookfield, the sharp-shooting West Texas basketball, isn't pitching 'em so straight on the ball field. . . . In his first four appearances as a flinger for Borge in the West-Texas-New Mexico League, Brookfield gave 15 runs, 22 hits, 13 walks, fanned eight, hit one batsman and made four wild pitches. . . . But he whacked nine hits in 12 at bat to lead the league with .570.

GET YOUR SCRAP RUBBER INTO THE BIG SCRAP: HURRY!

YOUR country needs every bit of old rubber you can dig up.. and it may avert gas rationing!

NATION-WIDE Scrap rubber drive ends next Tuesday JUNE 30

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has asked every American to get into this Scrap Rubber Drive. Here's a real opportunity for you to help speed the day of victory. Turn in your old rubber and help "give the Axis the Ax."

And also remember, this drive may avert gasoline rationing. The need for this rationing in the Middle West is based not on a shortage of gasoline but on a need to save tires for possible future war use. If enough scrap rubber is provided by this drive, nationwide rationing of gasoline may be avoided.

The petroleum industry has offered its thousands of service stations as convenient collection points during the drive. When you bring your scrap rubber to your Standard Oil Dealer, or to any other service station, the rubber will be weighed and you'll get your money at that time.

No oil company will receive one penny profit for this service. Each will turn the collected scrap rubber over to the government and be paid for it at the rate of $25 per ton (2000 pounds). The difference between the amount we pay and the amount Uncle Sam pays us has been pledged to the USO, Navy Relief, Army Relief, and American Red Cross.

The success of this drive—the ability of Uncle Sam to avoid the necessity of gasoline rationing—may well depend on the cooperation of every patriotic citizen. Get in the scrap rubber!

Don't delay! Bring the rubber today to your Standard Oil Dealer or Agent. He will pay you 1¢ a pound for your reclaimable rubber, such as:
Tires, tubes, boots, rubbers, hot water bottles, garden hose—anything made of rubber.
